It Pays to Raise the Best.

That it pays to raise and market the best, was again demonstrated the other day, when Mr Geo Liebert, Inga's enterprising farmer, took 20 hogs in to Edmonton packers. Of the 20 animals, 15 graded "selects" at 5 1/2c lb; and the remaining 5 graded "bacons" and fetched 5c lb. The 20 head netted George the sum of $225.75. Truckman Arthur Propp motored the party to the City.

Edmonton Beach.

There was a little excitement at the Beach on Friday last. The energetic manager of the ice cream parlor and refreshment booth which opened here last summer decided on that day to extend his premises, and with this end in view brought out from Stony a bunch of movie stars with jacks and a windlass. The movie men got the building out onto what is said to be a Government road when their actions attracted the attention of some of the residents.

Apparently these were opposed to the new move, and immediately took steps to have it stopped.

The Game at Heatherdown.

The team of basketballers from St. P. High motored up to Heatherdown on Friday Evg. last, encountered the Heatherdowners, and beat 'em by a score of 13 baskets to 4; the game being called at the end of the 2d period on account of darkness. Mr Hy Trapp officiated as umpire in a very acceptable manner. Those composing the team were: Ida Zucht, Christina Pailer, Emma Fischer, Elsie Goerz, Mary Campbell, Florence Willie, Anna Miller. The girls were accompanied by a number of their admirers.

The visitors were treated in a very hospitable manner, and were the guests at a dance given in their honor.

The S. P. H. S. Fliers.

At the meeting of the Stony Plain Fliers Basketball Club, held on Monday May the 15th at the High School, the following were elected: Hazel Becker, President; Miss L Eversman, Coach; Nora Kowensky, Captain; and Annie Wudel, Sec. Treas. This newly formed team boasts players who live up to their name, "The Fliers." It consists of the following: Annie Wudel, Hazel Becker, Clara Trapp, Nora Kowensky, Agnes Lauxman, Florence Willie, and Anna Horn.

Coach Lenora Eversman took them out for their first workout on Wednesday evening, May the 17th, and they did well.

Miss Goerz Graduates.

Miss Theresia Goerz, daughter of Mr Henry Goerz, graduated last week as a Registered Nurse, at the convocation held at the University of Alberta. Miss Goerz had been trained at the Misericordia hospital, Edmonton, and will continue on at that institution. Her many friends in town and district wish her every success.

Miss Goerz is the only one from the district, this season, to graduate in this class of service.

"Fresh from the Gardens"

A Warning To All Nations

In this column recently it was emphasized that the only effective and permanent way out of the existing depression, and the only method whereby world peace can be maintained and assured, is through international action. The fact was stressed that no one nation can, through its own policies and by its own efforts, bring prosperity to its people. Furthermore, that the solution of world problems today, or the domestic problems of individual countries, is not to be found in the overthrow of existing systems and institutions, but in the removal of the abuses which have been allowed to creep in and develop.

That is, it was emphasized that the basic cause of the present depression, the constant dread of war, the social unrest prevailing, was to be found in the narrow nationalism which has afflicted the peoples of all countries like a universal plague; that it was this narrow nationalism, born out of suspicions and fear, which had destroyed the trade of all nations, weakened their monetary systems, led to the maintenance of excessive armaments, and resulted in the imposition of burdens of taxation beyond the ability of people to pay.

Possibly some of our readers said to themselves: That is all very true, but what can we in Canada do about it? We are only 10,000,000 of people; we are not regarded as a world power, although we are a not unimportant part of a great world power, the British Commonwealth of Nations; as a Dominion, however, we can do little to influence world opinion and action; must we, therefore, continue to suffer until other nations forget their suspicions and fears and make up their minds to be sensible; is there nothing we can do to help ourselves?

There are, of course, many minor matters of policy to which Canadians can direct their attention and bring about certain domestic readjustments and improvements. But the basic cause of the trouble is beyond our individual control; it is international in its causes and scope, and it must be dealt with internationally,—not by one but by all nations. For example, Canada has just negotiated a new trade treaty with France in an endeavour to improve trade relations between the two countries. Above all things Canada desired to secure a larger market in France for wheat, the greatest staple item in our export trade. We could not get it. Why? Because, as Hon. C. H. Cahan, who negotiated the treaty on behalf of Canada, told the House of Commons, "there is not the slightest intention on the part of the French Government to allow foreign wheat to come into France which will interfere with domestic production." And the reason is France's fear of war and her determination to be in a position to feed her own people. And what is true of France is true of Germany, Italy, Spain, and many other European countries to which Canada formerly sold large quantities of wheat. Canada cannot change this attitude, but it can be changed by international accord which will remove the threat of war.

It is because our chief hope lies in the international arena that we in Canada, as a great trading nation, have reason to rejoice because of the message addressed by President Roosevelt direct to the heads of all governments throughout the world, kings, presidents and potentates of the forty-four nations to be represented at the World's Economic Conference in London in June, a message that has been hailed as a great document.

We would like to reproduce that message in full, but space will not permit. Having already succeeded in bringing about a world tariff treaty preceding the assembling of the London Conference, President Roosevelt in his message called for a further treaty providing that no armed troops whatsoever should hereafter cross any frontier save when a neighbor had offended by breaking her armament agreements. As an immediate goal, the President asked success for the Geneva arms conference and the London economic conference. He called for an agreement that no nation shall increase its existing armaments; he advocated the abolition of all offensive weapons of warfare. Concluding his message, President Roosevelt said:

"Common sense points out that if any strong nation refuses to join with genuine sincerity in these concerted efforts for political and economic peace, the one at Geneva and the other at London, progress can be obstructed and ultimately blocked. In such event the civilized world, seeking both forms of peace, will know where the responsibility for failure lies. I urge that no nation assume such a responsibility, and that all the nations joined in these great conferences translate their professed policies into action. This is the way to political and economic peace. I trust that your government will join in the fulfillment of these hopes."

Canada will be represented at the London Economic Conference by Premier Bennett and he will have the united support of 10,000,000 Canadians in standing unitedly with President Roosevelt and Premier Ramsay MacDonald in their great effort. He can be depended upon, as any Canadian prime minister could be depended upon, to throw the whole weight of this Dominion's influence into the scale for world peace, economic and political.

In this great effort the United States and Canada will be one. There will be no dividing lines between them. For over a century neither country has maintained any offensive force against the other, and because such offensive forces did not exist there was no need for either country to erect fortifications along the boundary or maintain defensive forces. Remove the danger of offence, as President Roosevelt says in his message, and no need exists for defensive forces.

Canada and the United States offer an object lesson to the world. Let that object lesson be the model to which all nations of Europe. The countries of North America are not suspicious of each other, do not fear each other. One prospers when the other prospers. The same can be made true of Europe. The youthful nations of the new world are showing the way to the more ancient nations of the old world. May they succeed in their great task.

"I had been so troubled with shortness of breath I could not lie down to sleep."

I could not do any hard work, or climb the stairs, and had nervous and smothering feelings, and became very weak.

Lake Freight Situation

Order Fixing the Maximum Rate Is Suspended

Pending further consideration of the lake freight situation, the board of grain commissioners suspended an order fixing the maximum rate for carrying wheat from the head of the lakes to Montreal, Sorel and Quebec, at six cents per bushel. The order was issued on May 5.

The order was made to offset discrimination between a six-cent rate to Sorel and Quebec and 8½ cent rate to Montreal. This discrimination has now been removed, the board stated.

It is understood the board is watching progress of legislation now before parliament in respect to the Canadian coastal laws, passing of which would prohibit United States competition in the all-water route to Montreal. When this has been dealt with it is understood the whole freight situation will be gone into.

RUNS UPSTAIRS AT 92

Daughter's Pride In Active Father

"I feel in duty bound," writes Mrs. A. J. W., "to express my gratitude for the marvelous health my father has obtained from Kruschen Salts. They should really be called 'Miracles.' He is ninety-two years old, and is as fit as a fiddle. He can nip about and run up and down stairs. His friends marvel why it is he is always alert and never feels slack. He always tells them the reason, 'my regular daily dose of Kruschen Salts every morning.' We always recommend Kruschen Salts to all our friends. To my idea no family should be without it."

—(Mrs.) A. J. W.
Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect the vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the healthy Kruschen habit. Then they start getting rid every day of all waste matter from the system. New health is born, goes coursing through the veins. And almost immediately they feel their youth has returned; they feel young, energetic and happy. In a word, they've got that famous "Kruschen Feeling."

Rely On Prairie West

Greatest Index Of Settlers Occurred

When Wheat Prices Were Low
"While it is true that all agricultural prices are still away below the figures of a few years ago, may I remind you that the prairie west received its greatest index of settlement in the pre-war decade with wheat prices ranging from 65 cents to $1 f.o.b. Fort William," declared John M. Imrie, managing-editor of The Edmonton Journal, in an address before the annual meeting of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. "Those settlers $1 wheat was the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. It is true that costs were low, but during the past three years there has been a tremendous reduction in production costs."

Canadian Goat Society Holds Annual Meeting

Inquiries Received Indicate Good Demand From Prairie Provinces

The Canadian Goat Society held its 16th annual meeting recently in Victoria, B.C., with representative breeders in attendance. It was shown that though business had been quiet during the past year, registrations and transfers of pedigrees of pure bred stock had been well maintained and membership showed a slight increase.

The chief business of the meeting was the adoption of a new constitution embodying the requirements of the new Live Stock Pedigree Act.

Judging by enquiries already received from the prairie provinces there is a good demand for goats, but the prices offered are so low that there is little in the business.

Summer Cruises

Intriguing Sea Voyages Planned By Cunard and Anchor Lines

No less than 23 summer cruises have been scheduled by the Cunard and Anchor Lines for this season. These cruises will all sail from New York City, and the services will use eight of the Lines' steamers.

The "Franconia," celebrated for her World Cruises, will make two cruises to the Canadian North Cape and one to the South, the first sailing from New York on July 29th. The itinerary includes the Saguenay River, Quebec, Murray Bay and Bermuda. This cruise will be repeated on August 29th in each case calling at Boston both ways. The southward cruise leaves New York on August 12th for Cuba, allowing three days in Havana, a full day in Nassau and two days in Bermuda.

The "Mauretania" will make five fast cruises to the West Indies this summer, sailing from New York on July 8th, 22nd, August 5th, 22nd, and September 8th. Each cruise will last 12½ days and cover 5,300 miles. The ports visited will include Port of Spain, Trinidad, La Guaira for Caracas, Venezuela, Willemstad, Curacao, Colon, Panama, and Havana, Cuba. The "Mauretania" skirts the Leeward and Windward Islands on her way to Trinidad.

The annual North Cape cruise operated in connection with Raymond and Whitecomb, will call from New York July 1st, calling at Iceland, North Cape, Hammerfest, Norwegian fjords, Bergen, Oslo, Copenhagen, Zoppot, Klaty, Stockholm, Leningrad for Moscow or Swinemunde in Germany, and Cherbourg. The cruise lasts 42 days in the "Carinthia."

The "Albatross" is also scheduled for a couple of week-end cruises to Nova Scotia, the first being on the 14th and 15th of July and the second for the Labour Day week-end. Another cruise leaves New York on the 21st for a 32-day round-trip to Europe, calling at Cork, London, Hamburg for Berlin, Rotterdam for Holland, Havre for Paris, and back to New York.

Other summer cruises of Cunard and Anchor Lines include six 12½-day trips to the Saguenay, Quebec, Murray Bay and Bermuda, covered by the "Transylvania" and "Californian" for cruises to Nassau and Havana by the "California"; two Labour Day cruises to Nova Scotia by the "Albatross" and "Caledonia."

In addition the "Tuscania" has been chartered by the Bible Conference Association for a cruise to Nassau and Havana, leaving New York on June 24th. Although the cruise is open to the general public, it will differ from other cruises in that there will be no dancing, no open bars and no theatrical entertainment. "Albatross" cruises will be held three times a day. It possesses many ideal features for people who do not care for the livelier type of cruise. On all other Cunard-Anchor cruises there will be concerts, night clubs, bridge and other amusements, and a vacation cruise something to remember.

Popular Preference Does Not Preclude Poultry

Pork is the Canadian standby in meat, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The per capita consumption in 1932 was 91 pounds, which was greater than the consumption of all other meats combined, including poultry. Beef consumed amounted to 56 pounds per capita, mutton and lamb about seven pounds, and poultry 11 pounds.

Total consumption of eggs was 297,949,339 dozen, or 28 dozen per capita, as compared with 29 dozen in the previous year.

Greatest Reindeer Trek In The History Of The Arctic Regions Is Now Nearing An End

Greatest reindeer trek in Arctic history nears its end.

It is a thrilling saga. Lapp and Eskimo reindeer punchers battled cold and blizzards, starvation and wolves for three and a half years, in a mercy feat which will mean permanent food supplies for dwindling Eskimo population of the northern rim of Canada.

It now looks as if 3,000 reindeer, a sturdy animal easily domesticated, will be successfully delivered at the government's new reindeer reserve east of the Mackenzie delta early next year.

Back in 1926 the plight of the Canadian Eskimos reached a point where Ottawa decided the northern native must have permanent food supplies. Eskimos are decimated. Caribou migration had taken heavy toll. Forlorn brothers, two Arctic biologists, were employed to survey Canadian reindeer ranching prospects. They finally recommended an area 15,000 square miles in size, just east of the Mackenzie's great northern delta. There deer moss abounds and many other natural advantages were reported.

Three years later, when investigations were complete, Ottawa contracted with Lomen brothers, Alaskan reindeer punchers, for delivery of 3,000 Alaskan deer. The Lomen firm was offered $60 each for deer delivered to the Mackenzie reserve.

Within six months a herd of 3,000 healthy animals had been rounded up in the Buckland Valley on the west coast of Alaska, fully 1,800 miles by coast line from the northern Canada border. The herd started its slow trek east, with native herders and sturdy shepherd dogs following a route fixed by an aeroplane survey. They thought they could reach Canada in a year and a half. Already three years and a half have passed and it will be another year before the herd is delivered at the reserve.

Skiing reindeer punchers more than once faced death.

They took their wives and children with them.

One child died.

They had 5,000 adult deer when they started.

Wolves, storms and pressing food needs cut 1,000 from that total. But sturdy skiers reached Canadian territory this spring with 2,000 of the original herd and 100 young deer.

Wolves frequently caught the big herd, killed off 100 deer in one winter. Wolves would raid the herd, kill six or seven animals, stop to devour what they wanted and come back for more. Two years ago more than 500 reindeer were lost in a storm. Herders pursued them, ran the storm, and subsisted for a week on a cup of flour and bits of hard dough scraped from their equipment. It was six months before the lost deer were finally returned to the herd.

Tom Wood, Eskimo-camp manager, was lost for three days in a storm. In that country temperatures are often as cold as 70 below zero for days at a time. It is an unpeopled uncharted waste, terror of Eskimo and white explorer alike. Wood faced death. He is a man of intelligence who had been to a mission school in Alaska. His strength ebbing, the Eskimo fell to his knees in the storm.

He prayed to God. Today he says that, through the storm, he saw the dim figure of a woman.

He struggled to his feet pressed on, found a white trapper's igloo. The trapper's wife, by chance, had stepped outdoors for a few moments and the Eskimo had seen her. She had not seen Wood.

But the Eskimo had seen the woman and feels it was God who answered his prayer.

Eskimos wore reindeer skins throughout the long journey. It is almost impossible to freeze in such clothing. They were forced to ski rapidly to round up straggling deer, found themselves perspiring in rubber weather. Their double parkas were damp with perspiration for days but the Eskimos and Lapps pulled through.

It was a terrible trip. Two crews of herders were forced to quit. Now near Herschel Island the herd is in charge of Andrew Bahr, veteran Lapp boss, and Tom Wood, Alaskan Eskimo, camp manager. There are three other Lapp herders and three Eskimos, besides families of Eskimos and Lapps. When they arrived there the Eskimos asked only for hymn books and Bibles. They were glad to be alive.

When the deer reach the new reserve next year the government plans to domesticate the animals, teach Eskimos to take care of them, as farmers would care for work horses or milk cows. The Eskimo has both animals in one, for the reindeer can haul a 250-pound burden and provide a milk supply for the natives as they do in northern Europe and Alaska.

Supervision will be strict so that Eskimos will not kill off the precious herd and, in time, it is expected that farms in the Canadian Arctic will equal those of Norway's far northern Laplanders.

Canadians Are Healthy

Record Health Year in Canada In 1932

The year 1932 was a record health year in Canada, in the face of increasingly unfavorable business conditions. This is indicated by the very low death rate, which prevailed among nearly 1,250,000 Canadians insured in the industrial department of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. This large cross-section of the Canadian population gives a true health picture of the population in general, it was said. The death rate of these insured Canadians last year was 7.7 per 1,000, a decline of 4.3 per cent. from the previous minimum, recorded in 1931.

Simplified Method Of Sending Messages Developed In France

An automatic radio, immensely simplifying the process of sending messages, has been developed in France. The apparatus can be operated by anyone knowing how to read, obviating the necessity of a trained wireless operator. It works by means of knobs, which are turned like the knobs on a radio receiving set. The letters of the alphabet and various signals are printed on a dial turned by a knob, messages thus being spelled out.

More Ships From Churchill

Volume Of Traffic Expected To Exceed That Of Last Year

At least twice as many ships as last year will load at the port of Churchill during the present season, according to information received by the Saskatchewan traffic council at a meeting held in Saskatoon.

Last season 10 boats visited the port. It was announced that the Dalgleish Steamship Company had now arranged for the first boat, the S.S. Pennyworth to load at Glasgow July 17, Newcastle-on-Tyne July 26, and at Antwerp July 28. The company expressed willingness to open the season one month earlier than last year if the underwriters were willing to extend the open dates for hull and machinery insurance in the same manner as Lloyd's was willing to underwrite import and export cargo.

Regarding ocean freight rates to Churchill, announcement was made that the Dalgleish Company was prepared to accept the same ocean rates from British and continental ports as now applied to Montreal. This was the same arrangement as was made last year.

The relation of the reduced marine insurance rates recently obtained by the Saskatchewan government contract by negotiation with Lloyd's to the development of export trade in flour, millstuffs, livestock and packing house and dairy products was considered by the council.

Import tonnage of various commodities during the coming season was considered in detail. The opinion of the meeting was that the total volume of import traffic would considerably exceed the 1932 tonnage.

George H. Smith, traffic representative of the Hudson Bay Route, who acted as secretary of the meeting also reported that arrangements were being completed to take care of anticipated large movement of livestock through Churchill to Birkenhead and Cardiff markets.

New Light On Evolution

Discover Brain Of Gorilla Of Very High Type

Discovery in a gorilla of a brain of higher type than ever before found in an animal—nearer the human brain weight than any similar ape's brain on record—was announced by the Smithsonian Institution.

It sheds new light on the evolution of the animal brain upward toward the human level, thought giving no direct evidence of relationship of men and monkeys. The brain belonged to Okero, little three-year-old baby gorilla, that died several months ago at the Washington zoo. It was studied by Dr. C. L. Connelley, of Catholic University of America.

Aeroplanes Will Be Used In A New War To Be Waged In Effort To Exterminate Locusts

Old Practice Becomes New

Need Of Hard Grits In Poultry Rations Again Stressed

Some times old practices become new again. That can be said of the use of insoluble grits in the poultry rations. For a time there was a swing away from the use of insoluble grits, authorities claiming that because it did not dissolve in the crop, gizzard or intestine of the chicken it had no value and should be omitted from the ration. Only soluble stones that furnished lime or other minerals were recommended.

Now it has become evident that chickens must have a hard grit if they are to do well. That does not mean that minerals are not needed in the ration, but it does mean that a hard grit must also be provided. This is especially true with chickens raised in confinement where they cannot possibly pick up stones and rock fragments from the soil of the range.

The insoluble grit acts as teeth for the chickens in the gizzard. It helps to grind up food and therefore has a tendency to prevent crop bound conditions. The presence of the grit makes the gizzard hard and muscular insuring healthy action of the nitric system.

Strange Coincidence

Wheat Loader Gets Same Car Twice On Different Occasions

K. H. Johnson, Alberta wheat pool agent at Conrich, is wondering what it is going to happen again.

On August 23, 1932, Johnson loaded a railway car, No. 504457, with No. 2 wheat for Vancouver. On September 27, 1932, he was loaded No. 2 wheat again for Vancouver when he noticed it was car No. 504457.

Coincidence it might have been, but now Johnson is talking about his "double." He loaded car No. 504485 with No. 2 wheat for Vancouver January 9. And a few days ago car No. 504485 came back again to be loaded with No. 2 wheat for Vancouver.

Calls against the same car returning to the same shipping point to be loaded with the same wheat for same destination in the same crop year are in the thousands.

Butter Conference Suggested

Suggestion that a conference between Canadian and New Zealand representatives of affected interests be held in New Zealand in an attempt to iron out difficulties concerning the importing of butter from the southern dominion into Canada, was made in a resolution adopted by the annual meeting of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Vancouver.

Russia estimates that its present population is 127,000,000.

In a fresh war which science is waging against locusts, the insect pests which cause such widespread destruction, the speed of air transport is now playing a valuable part. Experts at the British war office chemical department on Salisbury Plain are studying methods by which locust swarms may be exterminated while on the wing, and it was in connection with these experiments, just lately, that it was desired to obtain as quickly as possible a considerable number of live locusts.

To meet this demand the government of Kenya shipped several crates of insects to London by Imperial Airways. Only seven days after having been put on board an air-liner at Nairobi, the locusts were unloaded at the London airport, and were sent immediately to the research laboratories on Salisbury Plain.

Here it was found that, though a certain number had died on the journey, there were sufficient left alive to provide material for a number of important tests, during some of which the insects were placed in wind-tunnels and subjected to a spraying treatment with creosote, and also with sodium arsenite dust.

The idea of the present experiments is to discover improved methods for dealing with the locust plague in Africa, and more particularly to evolve methods whereby aeroplanes can attack locusts when they are on the wing and destroy them by releasing clouds of chemicals which are found to be most deadly in their effect. African administrations are collaborating actively in this new campaign, which is a matter of considerable importance to them, seeing that during the past few years it is reckoned the damage caused by locusts had amounted to more than £6,000,000.

Result Of Old Feud

Embiltered Forest Dwellers In England Blamed For Fire

It is said that the constantly recurring fires in Ashdown Forest are the result of a feud that dates from the time of Henry the Eighth, who gave the peasant grazing and other forest rights for tending the deer he hunted.

The feud is being waged, according to the many people who have been spoken to, by embittered forest dwellers.

These men feel that the forest is their heritage, and that property owners are gradually taking it away from them. They are fighting for it with fire.

They have lit fires in Ashdown Forest for many years, but recent abnormally dry weather has given the fire-raiders greater opportunities for destruction this year.

Nearly 2,000 acres belonging to wealthy people have been set alight during the past few weeks. Ashdown Forest covers approximately 7,500 acres.

A reporter discussed the motives for each fire, and discovered special reasons in each case.

One of the Ashdown Forest conservators who spoke of the feud declared:

"In the olden days many smugglers hid in the forest and spent their lives defying law and order. The same spirit seems to live on."

"These fires are being lit through sheer 'cussedness.' The board of conservators represents the parliament of Ashdown Forest and administers law and order. It is therefore the natural enemy of the men of the forest, and is defied."

Inquiry From Jamaica

A letter was received recently by the Regina Board of Trade from Kingston, Jamaica, asking if any Saskatchewan factories could quote prices on orange crates shipped down into bundles. "If they make egg boxes they can surely make orange crates," says the letter.

C.P.R. Chief Praises Roosevelt

E. W. Beatty, president and chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has praised the "courageous and vigorous actions" of President Roosevelt and of the congress of the United States as well as the recent trade conversation between the president and Premier R. B. Bennett.

In an article contributed to the "Boston Transcript," Mr. Beatty analyzed Canada's railway problem, expressed hope in the forthcoming economic conference, and said he looked for an early upturn in the volume of trade between Canada and the United States. Mr. Beatty wrote:

"I have no doubt that the economic situation steadily, if slowly, improve and that a more or less free interchange of commodities between various areas will commence to make itself felt over the next few months.

It is reasonable to suppose, also, that it will not be long before we see the start of an upturn in the volume of trade between Canada and the United States.

"I am one of those who look hopefully towards the world economic conference, having something more than a small faith in the common sense of the men who are to be expected to direct the struggles of the great nations towards economic salvation, and I am thus assured that our serious economic difficulties will soon be observed to take on a less formidable aspect, the troubles of our railways will be accordingly lightened, but we shall then be faced with the still harder less though provocative matter of competition in transportation. Railway executives have already directed much consideration and effort in this direction, and results have not been without considerable encouragement.

Prominent Westerner Dies

Herbert J. Hardie Was Well and Favorably Known To Western Canada Printing Industry

The best known personality to visit from time to time the publishing houses of western Canada, from the Great Lakes to Victoria, B.C., Herbert J. Hardie, known as "Herb" to his many associates, died suddenly Saturday afternoon, May 6th, age 63 years. Death occurred at the family residence, 999 Grosvenor Avenue, Winnipeg.

Mr. Hardie had been confined to his home for a few days with a heart affection. He had never been sick a day in his life and the ailment was not considered serious. He had been to the room of a daughter who has been ill for some time, and carried a tray to her with her evening meal. Settling the tray down on a table, in his own room Mr. Hardie laid down on the bed and died in two minutes. Mrs. Hardie made the tragic discovery.

Mr. Hardie was born in Caledonia, Ont., but when quite young located with other members of his family at Tilsonburg, Ont. There he received his education in the public and high school.

On Christmas Day, he was married, the bride being Miss Nellie Becker, and shortly afterwards the couple came to Winnipeg. Mr. Hardie having secured a position in the Free Press as accountant in the business office.

He remained with the newspaper for six years. At the end of that period he joined the staff of the Toronto Type Foundry Co., succeeding J. C. Crome as manager of the branch, and he had been with the company in the same position for the past 35 years. He travelled extensively and was known in every daily and weekly publishing house in western Canada. He was keenly devoted to the interests of the company, and if pleasure and entertainment interfered with his duties as a business man, business always came first. He was very successful and no manager of a branch in Canada was more highly regarded than was Mr. Hardie by the organization for whom he worked.

Mr. Hardie was a member of the Winnipeg Press Club, the Graphic Arts Association, the Elmhurst Golf Club, the Carleton Club and Fort Rouge United Church. At Sunday night's service in the edifice, Rev. A. E. Ewing, minister, referred feelingly to the loss sustained by the congregation.

Exemptions On Taxes

Applies To Cheques Issued For Milk, Cream Or Eggs And Poultry

Further exemptions to the tax on cheques, money orders and postal notes were approved by the House of Commons at Ottawa, when the special War Revenue Act was put through its final stages. Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, moved an amendment exempting cheques issued for milk and cream to producers, and cheques issued in payment of eggs or poultry by egg or poultry exchanges to producers. He also exempted cheques issued by co-operative associations of wool growers and cheques issued by municipal corporations in receipt of unemployment relief.

"At the same time," he added, "there is a similar exemption in the case of money orders, and also a similar exemption in the case of postal notes."

The minister also added a clause to the bill which makes it clear that farmers' mutual insurance companies, which have been exempted from the provisions of the act insofar as fire insurance business is concerned, are also exempt in respect to weather insurance.

Honey Via Hudson Bay

Saskatchewan Exporters Plan Shipments To England Through New Port

Saskatchewan beekeepers are planning to export honey to Great Britain next fall via the Hudson Bay route. The British market consumes a large quantity of honey each year, and now that Canadian honey enjoys a substantial preference and it is proposed to guarantee the pound sterling at $4.60 for export purposes, it is anticipated that it will be possible to realize a better price on the export market than on the home market.

FUBLISHER PASSES

Herbert J. Hardie Manager of Toronto Type Foundry Co. Western Branches, whose death occurred in Winnipeg.

Surviving are a widow and five daughters, Misses Irene, Lucille and Jean, living at home; Mrs. Jackson L. Briggs, Toronto; and Mrs. Chester Stovel, Winnipeg. Three brothers and one sister are also living; Dr. Edna L. Hardie, Toronto; Dr. R. A. Hardie, United Church medical missionary at Seoul, Korea; W. A. Hardie, Vancouver, B.C.; and Eva H. Hardie, missionary at Morababad, India. Mr. Hardie had been a resident of Winnipeg for the past 41 years.

George H. Saults, secretary of the Graphic Arts Association of this city, said today: "Mr. Hardie could be regarded as one of the most successful of the young men who had come from Ontario to the West and made good. He had a wide acquaintance with the publishing business from Port Arthur, Ont., to Vancouver Island. There was not a printing or publishing office in that wide stretch of country which did not know Mr. Hardie personally and on which he had not made from year to year a business and social call. He was a member of the Weekly Press Association from the inception of the organization and attended all their conventions. In the early days he was an active member of the Western Canadian Press Association. He never rested when business had to be done, and one might say he died in harness. His entire life had been an outstanding business success and he sacrificed himself in the end for his business."—Winnipeg Free Press.

Radios In Great Demand

Next To Flour They Constitute Biggest Shipments To Arctic

Radios constitute the biggest shipment of goods, next to flour only, sent into the arctic and traders now buying their stocks in Winnipeg to go north are purchasing all the battery radios, new and used, they can get their hands on.

"The northland," said Col. Jim Cornwall in an interview at Winnipeg, "is going radio-mad. Every last Indian in the bush country and every Eskimo in the barren lands wants a radio. They will pay any price for them and some of the traders, I fear, are profiteering."

"I know one trader who sold a radio for six white fox skins. These fox skins are worth their weight in gold and then some. But so is the radio and, of course, there is a lot of work about carrying the instruments and the heavy dry cells across the portages east and west of the Mackenzie River.

The radio, Col. Cornwall explained, is transforming the northland. No longer do the inhabitants sit in silence through the months' long winter arctic night. Instead they tune in and the reception is as clear as a bell. No clanking trolley cars, no interference from the telephone next door.

Col. Jim Cornwall is a pioneer of the north. His picturesque name, "Teece River Jim," was given him when the Peace was weeks' travel beyond the rim of civilization at Edmonton. He was the first modern white man to realize the possibilities of the country.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS AND HIS FRIENDS

Golden Text: "Ye are My friends, if ye do the things which I command you."—John 15:14.

Lesson: Mark 13:1-14.9. Devotional Reading: John 15:9-17.

Explanations and Comments

Plotting Of Priests and Scribes, 14:1, 2.—Two days before the Passover Feast (which is called also the feast of Unleavened Bread, because for the seven days during which it lasted no leavened bread was eaten), the chief priests and scribes met and discussed how to seize Jesus craftily and kill him. The deed would have to be done quickly, they decided, before the feast began, for they feared a tumult among the people; if this could not be, then it must be postponed until afterwards, they thought. The proposition which was finally brought them, verse 10, was a safe one which would avoid the uproar.

The Anointing At Bethany, 14:3-9. In Bethany, Jesus was the guest of one named Simon still known as "the leper," to distinguish him from other Simons. Jesus must have been cured of his leprosy or his guests would have been made ceremonially unclean. Similarly Matthew was called Matthew the publican after he had left his tax-collecting. To the fact known familiarly as we know from John 12:3, was Mary, the sister of Martha and Lazarus, who brought with her an alabaster flask filled with a very costly ointment, pure nard. Breaking the flask, which was without a stopper, she poured its contents over the head of Jesus. John tells us that she anointed His feet and wiped them with her hair, and the house was filled with the odor of the ointment.

The disciples, and especially Judas, were so indignant at calling it a useless waste. They said the ointment could have been sold for thirty shillings and the money given to the poor. The word in the Greek which is translated "shilling" denotes a coin worth about eight pence half penny, or nearly seventeen cents. The Margin of the Revised Version tells us, and it was the wage for a day's labor. Jesus explains that it was a woman's act, and they were wrong; that she was a poet, and they were commoners. They murmured against Mary, spoke harshly to her, but Jesus praised her. "Let her alone," says Jesus, "for she has done a good work on Me."

Jesus always helps the poor, for the poor would never be lacking, but Himself they would not always have. Jesus reminded them. Jesus was not uttering a prophecy about the poor. He was merely stating a fact that was, and still is, very conspicuous in His land.

"Our Lord and Master, When He departed, left us in His will As we have left legacy on earth, the poor. These we have always with us; had we not. Our hearts would grow as hard as are these stones."—Lontloew.

Funds For Relief Work

Additional $350,000 For Use By Department Of National Defence

An order in council tabled in the House recently, authorizes the expenditure of an additional $350,000 by the department of national defence, an increase in the number that may be employed to 12,500. The work is to be finished on June 30, according to the plans.

Last fall an order-in-council authorized expenditure of $700,000 for this purpose, the work to be the laying out of emergency aeroplane landing fields in the more isolated regions across Canada.

Future Of China

Predicts Nation Will Be Split Up Into Two Great Regions

Possibility that China would be split up into two great regions, a monarchist government in the north and the present republican administration in the south, was foreseen by Professor Kiang Kang-Hsi, chairman of the department of Chinese studies at McGill University.

Deep down in their hearts, Professor Kiang believes, northern Chinese desire the return of their re-acknowledged emperor, Henry Pu-Yi, president of Manchukuo. He thinks that the Chinese are secretly desirous of seeing the Japanese invasion to bring about their dreams of a re-established empire.

Ceremony Long Delayed

Dean Reads Burial Service Over Grave Of Shackleton

A burial service performed over the grave of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous Antarctic explorer, in the lonely British South Atlantic island of South Georgia more than 10 years after his death there, is described in a letter received in London recently from the Very Rev. Harold E. Lumdale, Dean of Stanley, Falkland Islands.

Shackleton died on board the "Quest" at South Georgia, on January 5, 1922, four months after sailing from London on his fourth expedition to the Antarctic.

Mr. Lumdale took up his present post in February, 1932, and his district includes the South Georgia, South Shetland, South Orkney, and South Sandwich Islands, and any British possession southward to the South Pole. He writes:

"In December I crossed the South Atlantic in a trawler, some 850 miles, to minister in South Georgia.

"No priest had visited there before, and since Shackleton had only been buried by a layman I felt it my duty to say the office for the dead, and added the words of committal.

"On Saturday, December 17, at five in the afternoon, we set out for the grave. Large numbers of the whalers, Norwegians as well as English, were there.

"The sun was shining brightly on the lofty brown mountains, which were streaked with snow on the sides and capped with snow for hundreds of feet where they are 6,000 to 5,000 feet high.

"The little cemetery lies at the foot of these mountains, and Shackleton's grave with its stone stands out from the rest."

Among those who attended the service were Commander W. M. Carey, R.N. (retired), of the Royal Research ship "Discovery II," which recently returned to Cape Town after cruising for a year in the Antarctic, and many of his officers and crew.

Polar Bear Rugs Fashionable

Many Inquiries Come From East To The Pas

Churchill polar bear rugs are the vogue in the east. Since the Hudson Bay Railway opened, there has been an increase in interest in white bear floor coverings. Most of the enquiries about the white bears come from the east. Taxidermists, collectors and representatives of museums are seeking specimens of the big bears.

A number of persons have written fur traders in The Pas regarding shipments of live bears, especially cubs. Recently J. R. Kerr, fur buyer, shipped one bear skin eight feet three inches in length, to a taxidermist who is mounting it for the Brandon, Man., museum. Another six foot bear was shipped to H. S. Cruikshanks, Truro, Nova Scotia. Another went to Dr. John Boland, Providence, R.I.

Hundreds of wild animal rugs have been manufactured in The Pas in the last few months.

Many Students Enrolled

University Attendance Reaches Highest Figure On Record

Enrolment of students in Canadian universities reached the highest figure on record at the end of the academic year, 1932, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports. As an explanation, the bureau quotes the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching as saying "persons above high school age are just the group which unemployment throws back into schools in the largest number." At the end of the year, in June, 1932, This, compared with 40,509 in 1931, was an exceptional increase and the 1931 figure compared with the 1930 enrolment of 31,368 is still more remarkable. In 30 years from 1901 when enrolment was only 9,620, the increase was 320 per cent.

GERMANY READY TO CO-OPERATE IN PEACE PLAN

Berlin, Germany.—Chancellor Hitler trumpeted Germany's readiness for equality in armaments and announced Germany's readiness to co-operate with other nations in guaranteeing international security and tranquillity in a pronouncement before the Reichstag.

"There is but one great task before the world, namely, to secure the peace of the world," the Nazi chieftain asserted in an address which, while stoutly reaffirming Germany's "right to live" on equal terms with other peoples, was marked by obvious moderation.

The German chancellor roundly scored the Versailles treaty but pledged his government to abide by it until some better instrument should be found to replace it.

He said he considered Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's arms plan a starting point for solution of the arms problem.

Hitler, in a speech of peaceful undertone, declared his generation had suffered too much from the insanity of war "to visit the same upon others."

Chancellor Hitler gratefully endorsed President Roosevelt's plan for relieving the international crisis and promised co-operation with Mr. Roosevelt's efforts.

The chancellor agreed that without solution of the disarmament problem lasting economic reconstruction is unthinkable.

In behalf of the entire nation, and especially the young Nazi movement, he pledged that Germany would go as far as any nation in disarming, even to the extent of scrapping her whole military equipment provided other powers did the same.

Detailing with figures, the extent of which Germany is disarmed under the treaty of Versailles, and presenting statistics to show that other nations are bristling with armaments, the chancellor demanded fiercely:

"What more concrete security can France want from Germany?" Has not Germany any right to security for herself?"

The chancellor delivered his momentous pronouncement before a Reichstag crowded with his uniformed followers. Behind him was a vast Swastika banner, and beside it a black, white and red flag.

With great emphasis he declared his government was dedicated to stamping out Communism, providing jobs and re-establishing a stable government. His "Young Germany," he said has the deepest understanding for similar aspirations and for the justified claims to life of other peoples.

Germany, the chancellor said, is ready to join any league of nations in the realization that the high-minded proposal of the American president to inject the mighty United States as the guarantor of peace in Europe would mean great tranquillity for all who would desire peace.

His government, he pledged, would proceed on no other path except that prescribed in the international treaties, but he asserted Germany would under no circumstances sign any paper which continued her disqualification.

Should such effort nevertheless be made, he warned that Germany would withdraw from international conference and from the League of Nations.

No new European war could mend matters, the chancellor declared, but, on the contrary, even if a resort to force succeeded, the result would only be a greater disturbance of balance, and the germ would be laid for more trouble, misery and distress.

Such madness would end, he predicted, in the complete collapse of the social order as it is known today. He declared that a Europe sunk in Communist chaos would mean a crisis of tremendous extent and duration.

Limit On Appointments

Ottawa, Ont.—Appointments made by the radio commission will continue only until March 31, 1934, according to an amendment which Prime Minister R. B. Bennett suggested to the government radio bill. They may be renewed when that date is reached.

Plans World Flight

Wiley Post Will Make Solo Attempt To Circle Globe

Oklahoma City.—Wiley Post, co-holder of the round-the-world flight record, announced that he would attempt off about July 1 in a solo attempt to lower the mark.

A stop is planned at Edmonton, Alberta.

The flight, Post said, will be made in the "Winnee Mae," in which he and Harold Gatty flew around the globe in eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes in June, 1931. The plane will carry a new motor.

"I am simply going out to set a new record, my personal ambition," was Post's only comment. "I will have no backer, no manager and no partners."

Instead of a human companion, Post will be aided by a robot which he has been testing for several weeks. Post expects the robot to relieve him of much of the work of flying, leaving him free to navigate and rest.

Under plans announced, the route would be much the same as that followed by Post and Gatty. Post would leave from New York with the intention of making a direct non-stop 3,900-mile flight to Berlin. He then would make a 4,300-mile jump over Russia, which probably would be broken at 2,600 miles for re-fueling.

From Russia he plans to fly 2,200 miles over water and ice to Fairbanks, Alaska, and then 1,450 miles to Edmonton and 2,100 miles back to New York.

The robot plane will have a cruising speed of about 170 miles an hour and top speed of 225 miles an hour.

Former Inspector Sentenced

Crime Career Of C.N. Employee In England Is Revealed

London, Eng.—An astonishing career was revealed at Old Bailey, when Arthur Hay, aged 45, former inspector of the Canadian National Railways was sentenced to three years penal servitude when found guilty of thefts of suitcases from railway trains in all parts of the country, containing property valued at nearly $15,000.

It was stated Hay was followed 3,000 miles by a railway detective. Among violations Hay was stated to have been convicted of stealing in 1908, in England, after which he went to South America and worked on a rubber plantation. He joined the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and later served in the Dardanelles during the war.

In 1927 he went to Australia, where he was sentenced to jail for thefts in Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane. He was also sentenced to six months' imprisonment in Manchester in 1931 for stealing $10,000 worth of jewelry.

Says No Election

Premier Henry Says No Appeal To Ontario Electors In June

Toronto, Ont.—Brief announcement was made by Premier George S. Henry that the Ontario Government would not appeal to the electors in June of this year. "No, we are not going next month," was the Henry declaration.

Notwithstanding the Henry statement, the newspaper says there is every indication around parliament buildings, however, that the wheels of preparation for an election are beginning to gather speed.

Uniform Federal Relief

Premier Bracken Wants Western Provinces To Make Joint Representations

Winnipeg, Man.—That the three prairie provinces present a combined front to the Dominion Government in asking a uniform federal relief policy, is the hope of Premier John Bracken of Manitoba.

Mr. Bracken following a conference between the provincial government and representative of Manitoba municipalities, which declared unemployed are growing in numbers and that increased aid from Ottawa is essential, declared he would wire the premiers of Alberta and Saskatchewan, suggesting the three provinces make joint representations to the Dominion Government.

Reviewing relief work since 1930, Premier Bracken said 90,000 people now are on relief in Manitoba. More than 60,000 of these were in Winnipeg and St. Boniface, the province's two largest cities. Number on relief had increased 40,000 in the past year, he said.

Will Not Resign

Premier Bennett Says Government Will Not Resign Over Senate Defeat

Ottawa, Ont.—The government will not resign because of the defeat in the senate of the bill to amend the Judges' act, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett said in answer to S. W. Jacobs (Lib., Carter), in the House. Mr. Jacobs harked back to the statement in the House some days ago by Mr. Bennett in respect to the railway bill, when he said that if the government dismissed any of the proposed Canadian National trustees, and the senate refused to co-operate in a joint address to make the dismissals statutory, he would resign. He asked if the action of the senate would have the same effect.

"I have no such intention," he prime minister replied, "nor did I ever intend it should be so, except in the case of a joint resolution."

New Labor Minister For British Columbia

W. M. Dennis Takes Office In Victoria, B.C.—William Middleton Dennis, of Vancouver, president of the National Labor Council of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, has been sworn in as British Columbia Minister of Labor in the Government of Premier S. F. Tolmie.

Appointment of Mr. Dennis to the British Columbia cabinet is the first step taken by Premier Tolmie in the reorganization of the executive council.

The new minister has been a resident of Vancouver for 25 years, and is well known in British Columbia labor circles as a member of the Amalgamated Carpenters of Canada. In 1915 he enlisted in the Canadian Engineers and served overseas throughout the duration of the war. Upon his return to Vancouver, Mr. Dennis was appointed instructor for the soldiers' civil re-establishment board. He has had many years experience in the labor movement and has always taken a keen interest in its problems. Mr. Dennis was born in England.

Ban On Titles

Claim Rule Is Not Binding On His Majesty's Government In Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—It is the considered view of the government that the 1919 motion with respect to honors adopted "by a majority vote of the members of the House of Commons only of the 13th parliament, is not binding upon his majesty, or his majesty's government in Canada, or on the 17th parliament," Premier R. B. Bennett told the House of Commons.

The promotion of Sir George Ferley in the Order of St. Michael and St. George, the premier said, was in accordance with established constitutional practice.

Among parliamentarians the general interpretation of the government's reply is that Canadians are not precluded from receiving titles in the New Year honor list, the king's birthday or similar occasions.

The answer was in reply to a question by Joseph Mercier (Lib., Laurier-Outremont). Mr. Mercier asked: "Do the recent decorations granted in the Order of St. Michael and St. George and in the Order of St. Gregory the Great, mean that Canadians holding titles in any order may now accept promotions in the same order or such promotions do not carry any rank or title?"

Marries Russian Prince

Toronto, Ont.—A Canadian woman, daughter of the millionaire, Robert Pim Butchart, of Victoria, B.C., was quietly married to a prince of old Russia in the private chapel at the residence here of Horace Smith. The bride was Mrs. Harry Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Butchart, of Victoria. The groom is Prince Andrei Chirinsky Chihmatoff, son of Princess Olga Chihmatoff, of Paris, France. They met in Paris.

ACREAGE CUT TO SOLVE THE WHEAT PROBLEM

Geneva, Switzerland.—The wheat conference held here during the past week, attended by delegates from Canada, Australia, United States and the Argentine, has adjourned.

It is believed representatives of the four great wheat exporting countries agreed to the principle of a 10 per cent. reduction of acreage and regulation of exports. The official communique issued, however, merely states the committee hopes to frame definite proposals after its second meeting in London a few days after the world economic conference.

The communique goes on: "As the wheat crisis grows worse, it is being realized more and more clearly that it can only be combatted by international understanding."

Referring to measures taken by the main importing countries to maintain home prices, the communique states prices in certain of these countries are, in some cases, three and four times as high as world prices.

"Judging from the disastrous price level, it might be thought," continues the communique, "there was enormous over-production, but a comparison and analysis of figures of production and consumption shows annual surpluses do not represent the difference in quantity which might be expected in view of the remarkable drop in prices."

The experts thoroughly examined the question of limitation of production and possibly of exports, together with liquidation of stocks, and will resume conversations in London, May 29, after consulting with their governments.

It is thought progress has already been made, and it is hoped definite conclusions may be reached in London. The communique concludes: "Compared with the London wheat conference of 1931, the present meeting admits a new element of greatest importance, namely: that on the American side there is now definite signs of possibility of legal co-operation."

Motion Defeated

Move To Ban German Goods From Britain Is Rejected

London, Eng.—A move in the House of Commons to prohibit the entry of German goods into Great Britain under the international sanctions clause of the League of Nations covenant was abandoned after an eloquent appeal by Sir Austen Chamberlain.

George Mander, National Liberal in Commons, requested a bill to authorize the prohibition of German goods and spoke for five minutes in defence of the proposal.

Sir Austen arose in a tense atmosphere and to the accompaniment of approving cheers appealed to Mander to withdraw the measure, telling him that such steps should be taken only in an emergency and that it was the government's province to decide when an emergency existed.

Mander withdrew the bill.

Junior "Co-ops" in Oregon.

In Oregon a plan has recently been developed for teaching co-operative marketing in the agricultural high schools. The plan proposes instruction to the high school boys by having them organise and operate co-ops. and practice co operation.

The end in view is that the farm boys of today may be experienced in co-op thought and practice when they become the farmers of tomorrow.

As these junior co-ops, are composed of minors, their associations are not incorporated. Also there are no separate marketing contracts with the members. Bylaws were prepared, however, which contain many provisions usually found in articles and contracts, and the signing of the bylaw constitutes an agreement by the members that they are morally bound thereby.

Grain as a Source of Fuel

The man at the wheel, who pays high taxes on motor fuel, has a natural interest in the proposals which keep cropping up to convert cereal grains into alcohol for mixing with automobile gasoline. Research men have found the alcoholic yield of wheat to be very high, and the performance of autos, using grain alcohol mixed with gasoline to be quite satisfactory. Boosters of the grain fuel idea would request a law to make the mixing of alcohol and gasoline compulsory. It is said that a number of foreign countries already require such a mixture, thereby taking care of the excess grain and potato crops.

And Now It's "Henocracy."

"Henocracy" is the term that Prof. Alp of the Illinois College of Agriculture applies to a new system under which hens are kept in individual metal coups which to Biddy's mind must very much resemble a first-class penitentiary.

Down in Miami, Florida, for instance, 60,000 laying hens have been placed in batteries in a 500 room "hotel". The hens are even deprived of an opportunity of admiring their eggs, for as soon as they are laid, they roll into a trough to be gathered.

Machine to Register Thought

It is reported that someone is working on an invention that will register thought, as if we didn't have enuf trouble already! Imagine what would happen if two whose personalities naturally clash could hear one another think while passing each other on the street! As it looks at this distance, the general use of such a machine would mean a greatly augmented police force.

Our Indebtedness.

The horrid truth is beginning to seep into people's mind that we as individuals, provinces and as a nation, are terribly in debt. The grand total of our indebtedness exuberantly paraded by statisticians and after-dinner speakers those sombre days, is afigazing. In fact "amazing" doesn't half describe it. It's like relating the distance in miles to the nearest star—incomprehensible! One hour after hearing or reading the total we have forgotten it and when it is again brought to our attention, have to go through all the thrills of horror once more.

We don't know who we are indebted to and, only vaguely, what for, but the damning debts are there in the bond for all to read. And many of them read "tax free" also "payable in gold in New York." Placed and to end, the bonds, mortgages, notes, etc. would reach to Borneo. The paper required for them alone must have kept a paper mill going for years.

Returning to the after-dinner speakers, politicians, statisticians, and newspapers that are now bringing up this matter of our otal indebtedness at such an unpropitious time; we'd like to say to them:

"How come you didn't bring this matter up several years ago?" When money was being spent and the debts incurred, why did not these present day prophets of doom preach against the procedure and point out the peril?

That seems to be the way of the world—after things happen the wiseacres tell us where we were wrong. The time to indicate the wrong is beforehand—if at all.

About the whole post there was only one telltale sign of something dark and sinister. In their hurry to get away, the bandits had overlooked that sign. Beside a stump in the sunlit clearing, Alan picked up old Pence's story-stick. Once or twice he had wondered what they had done with that old white-haired wretch. They would not burden themselves with him, nor would they turn him free, to report and bring the police hot on their trail. How had they dealt with old Pence?

As he picked up the stick, he saw a brownish-red stain on one end of it, a crimson splash almost turning dark; and a few hoary-white hairs clinging to the wood. And this story-stick which old Pence had been whittling at, carving clumsy bar-relics scenes from his own life—scenes of mining camps, of the fur-path and lonely gold trails, of dog teams and pack-horses, of broad-shouldered men bent under heavy potato loads and of women with a crude beauty of face and figure—this story-stick of his life from its rounded handle to its tapering end, was completed now.

CHAPTER XI.

How To Damn An Enemy

A Takudah brought word to Endurance of a strange happening at En Traverse Lake. He had been fishing there at an inlet for herbaries. He said—half-asleep that morning, with the fish line tied around his big toe. A thundering sound in the sky had roused him; and looking up, he had beheld a fearful thing come out of the southern horizon and roar out over the lake.

The sight of it, said John Afraid-of-his-Squaw, had nearly tumbled him from his boat. It had lit down on the water, he said, near Goose Point. And behold, a few minutes later it rose and started across the lake for the south shore. He had watched it no longer, but scurried to the bank and crawled in among some rocks; for the dreadful thing might have been hungry and questing for food.

Frank Pedneault listened very thoughtfully to the tale of the story, and then began drawing some conclusions of his own. To him this Indian's shifty monster was a possible key to many puzzles. To the best of his recollection he had never yet seen Alan Baker throw down a job merely because it was tough. And he knew that Baker had been heart and soul determined to wipe out that first stinging defeat and save Joyce MacMillan's dad. Bill had intimated that Alan had gone after those headlamps without violating his oath of secrecy; he had dropped a few broad hints to that effect.

Pedneault drew a conclusion: "Alan went out and got himself a flying machine to hunt them men out of the Thel Azash or make that Incomtrip. He and Bill arranged to meet somewhere. He picked Bill up and now they're over there together on the roughest trick in a coon's age!"

As he stood in the barracks door gazing wistfully across the Mackenzie to the distant hills, he felt all deserted by his comrades. "And they left me out in the cold. Didn't tell me one d—d thing about it. To h— with 'em both! But Lord! I wish on a trick like that—oh Lord, I wish . . ."

Not absolutely sure of his conclusions, he started out along the grassy terrace toward Mrs. Drummond's flower garden where Elizabeth Spaulding was reading. He was pondering, in vague outline, a trick of his own. It was a serious matter, and he wanted to be certain of his guess before he cut loose with a scheme like that. Elizabeth no doubt knew all about Alan's plans, since she was waiting here for him to return and marry her.

Elizabeth did know the story. Haskell had let her know. Not daring to go to her himself, he had employed Whipple to casually tell her that Baker had stolen valuable government property at Edmonton, had broken several flying regulations, and was certain of arrest and imprisonment the hour he showed up in civilization. No longer a policeman, and having no authorization of any sort, Baker might even be charged with second-degree murder if he killed any of these bandits.

The news affected Elizabeth very little. Superintendent Williamson and Colonel Steele were both good friends of Alan's and both had power in high places. If his venture should be successful, they no doubt could get him cleared. There is a lot of virtue, she reflected, in success.

When Pedneault came across and began asking roundabout questions concerning Alan and his venture, Elizabeth told him what she knew. She knew that Pedneault would repeat her words to Alan, if he got the chance; and Alan would thus hear from another person of her steadfast loyalty to him.

Very thoughtful, when he found out his guess had been correct, Pedneault walked back across the terrace to the mission hospital where Larry Young was propped up in a chair beside a window. For twenty minutes, leaning over the sill, Pedneault conferred with Larry in low tones.

From there, he went over to Haskell's cabin.

Haskell was shaving. He turned around and snapped:

"Well, what is it?"

"Sir, a meti called Adolphe brought word of trouble down river in an Indian camp. The Smokies, several families of 'em, have got hold of some 'permits,' and they're quarrelling, fighting. I could handle it myself. I've straightened out messes like that. I could be there and back in the launch by mid-afternoon, with your permission."

"You can't go. I need the launch myself in a little while."

Pedneault cleared his throat nervously. "Sir, I know it's not my place to say a thing like this, but—just a mere suggestion, sir—Superintendent Williamson is coming here on the next down-bat, probably tomorrow evening; and he's always very vexed about Indians killing each other in drunken brawls. He's always pleased when we nail a camp like that, sir."

It was a consummate stroke, his reference to Williamson. Larry Young had prompted him to that. Haskell took thought. If he sent a man and smoothed out this Indian trouble, it would look very well in a report. It would be a positive action, an achievement. He said: "All right. Go down and reduce them to order. But be back here in three hours. I will be the laun—"

Pedneault was already on his way up to barracks for rifle, belt-gun and keys from Whipple. Dashed on the wharf, he hurriedly tacked on gas and put in a big drum extra. Jumping in, slipping into the wheel seat, he stuck a pipe between his teeth, jammed his hat low over his eyes, yanked the starter chain and swung out upon the broad river.

A little puzzled by these preparations and all this haste, Haskell stepped outside his cabin. As he stood there, watching Pedneault's demoniac driving, watching the scarlet-and-gold launch vanish in its own spray down the Mackenzie, he heard a feeble shout up the terrace behind him; and he turned and looked at the hospital. At that moment Larry Young, leaning forward in his padded chair, was shaking a fist out the window and emitting a weak—

"Yee-ow! Three whoops for Ped!"

It was Haskell's intention, as soon as Pedneault came back with the launch, to take Whipple and make a trip up the Big Alooska. Baker would probably use the MacMillan trading post as a maneuvering base against the bandits. By muffling the motor over the last few miles the launch could slip up quietly. They would not be expecting him to strike a second blow; they likely would be up at the trading store; and the best it would take them ten full minutes to arise out of the narrow cramped river.

But as he sat there in his cabin, planning this blow, Haskell doubted if he was to succeed. A kind of fatalism had laid hold of him. In his feud with Baker he had been successful in the main, but what did all his triumph mean, when he had lost Elizabeth Spaulding? His victory had been a barren one. He saw that she was going to marry Alan Baker. In these last weeks the prophetic knowledge of that marriage had been haunting nightmare. Day by day it was marching closer and he was powerless to halt it.

When four hours passed and Pedneault failed to return with the launch, Haskell began to get suspicious. Five hours, six, and Pedneault still absent. Haskell finally went across to the hospital and demanded of Larry Young:

"What were you and Pedneault talking about before he came to my cabin?"

Larry never smiled. "I don't exactly mind, but I think we were talking about the weather. Ped said he hoped it ain't going to rain any more."

Haskell snarled: "You're laughing in my face. You hatched some devilry with him." He threatened viciously: "I'll fix you, constable. You're to be invalidated out of service. I've got something to say about the terms. When you're hobbling around, trying to live on few dollars a month, you won't be so d—d chipper!"

In a seething fury he turned away. Pedneault had tricked him, stolen the launch, and joined Baker's venture!

Unable now to go up the Alooska and smash that 'plane, he found outlet for his hatred in an evening's vengeance against Alan Baker and those men. At Williamson's coming visit he could deal them some terrible blows. His enemies had played into his hands. Baker had bought out under suspicious circumstances, had made a criminal of himself and taken the law into his own hands and turned justice to private ends. Pedneault had given a false report and absconded with police property. Bill Hardcock had stolen supplies and subverted them to his own uses, had gone a.w.o.l., had aided in a criminal enterprise, and to crown it all, had deserted.

Knowing Williamson's foibles pretty well, Haskell foresaw the superintendent's anger when he learned those blunt facts. They violated every tenet in the stern old officer's code, for he was a stickler for discipline. He would soak Hardcock and Pedneault to the limit. He would turn thumbs down on any leniency toward Baker. The ex-merchant would be branded with disgrace, if he escaped the pen. And if he did get those bandits, he had awaiting him the news that Trader MacMillan, whose innocence he had championed, for whose sake he had done all this and whose vindication had been his great purpose that Dave MacMillan, broken by shame and bitterness, was lying dead, a suicide, at Resolution.

Gratitude consists in a watchful attention to the multitude of God's gifts, taken one by one. It fills us with a consciousness that God loves and care for us even to the last event and smallest need of life. It is a blessed thought that He has been laying His fatherly hands upon us, and always in benediction, even from our childhood. Every gift has its return of praise. It awakens an unceasing daily converse with our Father. He speaking to us by the descent of blessings.

DIAMOND PRATTLE--By H.C.O.

Were you dere Charlie? Yes, I was; and the executive of the Big Four baseball league were tickled pink when Stony seniors became a member of their society—they even changed the name to The Big Five.

This was the best treatment any Stony representative ever received from an Edmonton organisation. The league comprises Morinville, Dollar Cleaners, A & N Cubs, Red Sox. This aggregation should give us a fair brand of ball.

Stony's team plays the first game at Diamond park next Sunday the 28th with the Cubs. Stony's first game at home is Wed. May 31.

Locals have a fairly strong, well balanced team, to start, and ought to hold their own. We have some real good hitters. If they are able to reduce the errors to a minimum, games will certainly be worth watching. Another big feature is support; no team does its best with little backing, so Come on, fans; let's show what we can do; and all turn out next Wednesday.

The W.L. ball tossers certainly had a reversal of form last Sunday to beat Stony and tie the series with a 13 to 5 win. Stony outbit their opponents but errors proved too costly. The all star team for the league looked quite promising during the contest.

Things we like to see: "Red" swatting the pill into the tennis court. 'Tis too bad he's not a sprinter. Eddie Enders pitching 8 inning shut-out ball. Phil Sinner imitating Pepper Martin and all but being pinched for stealing bases.

Don't forget—see you Wednesday.

News from Rosenthal.

Rosenthal Athletics played the first game of ball in the Central League at Central Sunday May 21.

After scores were counted it was discovered that R.As had crossed the home plate 23 times, while Centrals only clicked 5.

There were many amusing incidents thruout the game, with but few flashy plays. The collision between a shortstop and rightfielder and the hitting power of a pitcher who knocked down some 9 players, took in most of the game.

Batteries—Rosenthal, Jack Kulak, Art Davis, pitchers; Ed Kulak c. Central—M Urse, D Carmichael, pitchers; F Carmichael & Zuetz c.

A Percheron horse breeders club was organised at Rosenthal last Friday. Geo Kulak clubbed his horse to the members so they would be able to receive the Federal allowance.

In the case R Nelson of Edmonton was charged under the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act, with driving his car so negligently that it collided with a truck driven by Mr C Zander of Tomahawk. After a hearing lasting all afternoon Nelson was adjudged guilty and fined $15 and costs. Eardley Jackson appeared for Nelson. Geo J Bry appeared for Zander.

Social Postponed.

Owing to weather conditions, the Japanese Ice Cream Social, billed for Friday, May the 19th, was postponed. Sports will be plentiful and lunch will be served at 15 cents.

The social is being held to raise funds for the teams' expenses, and as the girls are well worthy of your support, they will be delighted to see you there, so come and have the time of your life.
